Commissioners made the following recommendations:

- Make college planning events recurring since they had high attendance from teens and parents and generated many follow-up questions.
- Continue covering practical college application topics such as essay writing and developing a personal story.
- Expand career events beyond just tech to include a wider range of career paths.
- Invite professionals to share their career experiences and explain how they entered their fields.
- Organize career sessions into more specific fields rather than broad categories.
- Include niche or specialized career topics to attract students with specific interests.
- Consider bringing back business or entrepreneurship-related events, possibly with

- improved marketing or timing.
- Add programming about youth leadership or starting youth-led organizations or nonprofits.
- Offer life-skills programming not typically taught in school, such as taxes, credit management, and financial planning.
- Include interactive workshop elements in events, such as time to work on or review college essays.

5. Subject: Pizza and Politics

Recommended Action: Solicit feedback on Pizza and Politics for 2026.

Recreation Coordinator Robert Kaufman gave a presentation.

Vice Chair Liu opened the public comment period and, seeing no one, closed the public comment period.

Commissioners made the following recommendations:

- Incorporate interactive or gamified activities, such as debate-style discussions where participants take sides on different topics.
- Consider roundtable discussions with experienced individuals, such as teen commissioners or school board candidates, to share perspectives.
- Include fast-paced debate or discussion segments to make the event more engaging for participants.
- Invite local candidates or public officials, such as school board or city council candidates, to introduce themselves and answer questions.
- Feature students or school political clubs to share their experiences with civic engagement and political involvement.
- Host discussions or workshops about youth activism and civic participation, including organizing protests or walkouts.
- Consider inviting activists or community leaders to speak about their work and experiences.
- Explore using surveys or feedback forms to gather topic suggestions from teens for future events.
- Include discussions about upcoming elections or important local and state races to help inform students.

6. Subject: Splash Bash/Summer Kickoff

Recommended Action: Solicit feedback on Splash Bash/Summer Kickoff for 2026.

Recreation Coordinator Robert Kaufman gave a presentation.

Commissioners asked questions which staff responded to.

Vice Chair Liu opened the public comment period and, seeing no one, closed the public comment period.

Commissioners made the following recommendations:

- Keep the event small-scale initially, with flexibility to expand as teen participation grows.
- Allow youth of all ages to participate when teen turnout is low.
- Include fun, interactive activities such as a dunk tank featuring teachers, arts and crafts (painting bags, henna, bracelet-making), and other hands-on projects.
- Consider adding more food options, like multiple food trucks or hot meals, to attract attendees and improve the experience of the event.
- Communicate activities more clearly in flyers to highlight the variety of options beyond basic descriptions.
- Be mindful of potential schedule conflicts with similar school or community events.
- Explore creative, safe ideas like water play with portable sprinklers.
