69		There is no mention of tourism in the master plan. I think that Cupertino has many interesting attractions for tourists, and the city could play a role with organizations such as Apple to refine tourism.	I am not clear whether Tourism falls into Parks & Rec, or another arm of the city. But if it falls into Parks & Rec, the master plan should definitely address tourism. I would be happy to contribute / lead the Cupertino Tourism plan, if desired. I recently spent 3 years touring the World, so I've seen a number of Tourism "systems".
