Dear Commissioners,

I remember about 20 years ago when the library was being renovated, I attended a planning commission meeting to determine if a street from Pacifica could be built next to the cyclone fence to the east of the library. Luckily there was a member of our neighborhood on the commission and she spoke up in support of us not to build a road from Pacifica because of the amount of foot traffic on Pacifica next to Regnart Creek. Hopefully the field can be designated a park so that a trail is not paved to the trailhead of Regnart Creek Trail. The roots of the trees are so close to the surface and the sidewalk, disturbing them might mean the slow death of the tree as our family has experienced in doing work in our backyard. The trees are so important in providing shade and the enjoyment of the field.

Thank you for letting me express my feelings on this subject matter.
