Section 1 | Economic Update

Economic Update

- Market volatility has intensified as financial conditions tighten and global central banks pursue monetary policies to combat persistently high inflation and maintain financial market stability. Labor markets remain strong, although the pace of job growth is moderating. Inflation is weighing on consumer sentiment and negatively impacting savings rates. Corporate earnings have generally performed better than expected, but warnings are growing along with wider credit spreads this year. While evidence of slower economic conditions has begun to mount, we expect the Federal Reserve to continue to raise rates to battle inflation, albeit perhaps at a less aggressive pace. Over the near-term, we expect financial market volatility to remain intensified and conditions tighter with persistent inflation, geopolitical risk, and the Fed's hawkish monetary policy.
- As expected at the November 2nd meeting, the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) raised the fed funds target rate by 75 basis points for the fourth consecutive time to a range of 3.75 – 4.00%, the highest level since 2008. Federal Reserve Chairman Powell reiterated that the risks of pausing too soon outweigh the risks of slower economic growth. He commented that rates would likely reach higher levels than projected and that policy would need to remain restrictive for some time. We believe the FOMC will continue to implement restrictive monetary policy until inflationary pressures subside but will look for an opportunity to slow the pace of rate hikes as economic growth moderates.
- In November, yields declined, and the curve became more inverted. The 2-year Treasury yield declined 17 basis points to 4.31%, the 5-year Treasury yield fell 49 basis points to 3.74%, and the 10-year Treasury yield dropped 44 basis points to 3.61%. The inversion between the 2-year Treasury yield and 10-year Treasury yield widened to -71 basis points at November month-end versus -44 basis points at October month-end. The spread was a positive 88 basis points one year ago. The inversion between 3-month and 10-year treasuries widened to -74 basis points in November from -2 basis points in October. The shape of the yield curve indicates that the probability of recession is increasing.

Employment

Source: US Department of Labor

The U.S. economy added 263,000 jobs in November, surpassing market expectations of 200,000, while gains were revised downward by 23,000 for the prior two months. Trends in employment remain strong, with the three-month moving average payrolls at 272,000 and the six-month moving average at 323,000. Gains were broad-based, led by leisure and hospitality followed by healthcare and government. The unemployment rate was unchanged at 3.7%, and the labor participation rate dipped to 62.1% in November from 62.2% in October. The U-6 underemployment rate, which includes those who are marginally attached to the labor force and employed part time for economic reasons eased to 6.7% from 6.8% last month. Average hourly earnings rose 5.1% year-over-year in November compared to 4.9% year-over-year in October. While the pace of job growth is moderating, the report demonstrates a strong demand for labor and provides the Fed further support for continued rate hikes.

Inflation

Consumer Price Index (CPI)

Personal Consumption Expenditures (PCE)

Source: US Department of Commerce

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) increased less than expected in October, up 7.7% year-over-year versus consensus expectations for 7.9%, and down from 8.2% in September. The Core CPI, which excludes volatile food and energy components, rose 6.3% year-over-year, down from a 6.6% increase in September. The pace of price gains for food decelerated; however, shelter soared 6.9% year-over-year, accounting for over 40% of the core CPI increase. The Personal Consumption Expenditures (PCE) index rose 6.0% year-over-year in October, versus up 6.2% year-over-year in September. Core PCE increased 5.0% year-over-year in October versus up 5.1% year-over-year in September. Although the pace of inflation is below its recent highs, levels remain well above the Fed's target of around 2%, which is likely to keep the Federal Reserve on the path of tightening monetary policy. If inflation trends continue to decline consistently, the Fed may tighten at a less aggressive pace.

Consumer

Source: US Department of Commerce

Source: The Conference Board

Advance retail sales were up 1.3% on the month, after an unrevised flat reading in September. This equates to +8.3% year-over-year, an upside surprise to consensus, but a continued slowing from the summer. The slower growth trend reflects headwinds from higher prices as consumers dip into savings and assume more debt. The Conference Board's Consumer Confidence Index dropped 2 points to 100.2 in November as views of current conditions, the future outlook for the economy, and income expectations all declined. The US savings rate dipped to 2.3% in October, the lowest level since 2005, as consumers continue to be squeezed by higher prices and financing rates. Demand for goods and services going into the holiday season was strong as shoppers took advantage of Black Friday and Cyber Monday discounts from retailers looking to move excess inventory.

Economic Activity

Source: Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago

The Conference Board's Leading Economic Index (LEI) remained in negative territory for the eighth consecutive month at -0.8% in October, following a downwardly revised 0.5% decline in September. The LEI is down 2.7% year-over-year vs -1.5% in September. The Conference Board cited consumers' worsening outlook amid high inflation and rising interest rates, as well as declining prospects for housing construction and manufacturing for the weakness. The Chicago Fed National Activity Index (CFNAI) decreased to -0.05 in October from +0.17 in September indicating below trend growth over the month. On a 3-month moving average basis, the CFNAI moved down to +0.09 in October from an upwardly revised +0.19 in September.

Housing

Housing Starts

Total housing starts declined 4.2% to an annual rate of 1,425,000 in October, after an upward revision to 1,488,000 units in September. Single-family home starts fell 6.1%, whereas multi-family starts declined by a more modest 0.5% month-over-month. On a year-over-year basis, total housing starts decreased 8.8% reflecting a shift from single-family units to more affordable multi-family units as homebuyers struggle with a combination of elevated prices and higher mortgage rates. Mortgage rates for a 30-year fixed-rate loan remain at a decade high, though rates receded to 6.39% by the end of November. According to the Case-Shiller 20-City Home Price Index, the year-over-year increase continued its declining rate of gain to +10.4% in September from +13.1% in August, clearly displaying the impact of higher mortgage rates which have reduced demand for homebuying as affordability has declined.

Manufacturing

Industrial Production

Source: Federal Reserve

The Institute for Supply Management (ISM) manufacturing index declined to 49.0 in November from 50.2 in October. Readings below 50.0 are indicative of contraction in the manufacturing sector. The declining trend reflects a lower demand for goods as consumers shift to spending on services. Total industrial production decreased to -0.1% in October after a downward revision to +0.1% in September. The decrease was led by declines in the utilities and mining indices. This equates to a 3.3% reading from the prior year. Capacity utilization declined to 79.9% in October after a downward revision to 80.1% in September and continues to run slightly above the 1972-2021 average of 79.6%.

According to the second estimate, third quarter GDP increased at an annualized rate of 2.9%, revised up from 2.6%. The upward revision reflects stronger personal consumption expenditures and narrower net exports than in the advance estimate. Personal consumption expenditures rose 1.7% overall in the third quarter primarily due to continued strength in services spending. The consensus estimate calls for 0.5% growth in the fourth quarter and 1.8% growth for the full year 2022.

Federal Reserve

As expected at the November 2nd meeting, the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) raised the fed funds target rate by 75 basis points for the fourth consecutive time to a range of 3.75 – 4.00%, the highest level since 2008. Federal Reserve Chairman Powell reiterated that the risks of pausing too soon outweigh the risks of slower economic growth. He commented that rates would likely reach higher levels than projected and that policy would need to remain restrictive for some time. The Fed acknowledged the cumulative tightening of monetary policy and the lag in its effects on inflation and the economy. There was no change to the pace of balance sheet reduction, which is expected to continue at a pace of approximately $95 billion per month. We believe the FOMC will continue to implement restrictive monetary policy until inflationary pressures subside but will look for an opportunity to slow the pace of rate hikes as economic growth moderates.

Bond Yields

Source: Bloomberg

Source: Bloomberg

At the end of November, the 2-year Treasury yield was 374 basis points higher, and the 10-Year Treasury yield was about 216 basis points higher, year-over-year. The inversion between the 2-year Treasury yield and 10-year Treasury yield widened to -71 basis points at November month-end versus -44 basis points at October month-end. The average historical spread (since 2003) is about +130 basis points. The inversion between 3-month and 10-year treasuries widened to -74 basis points in November from -2 basis points in October. The shape of the yield curve indicates that the probability of recession is increasing.

Performance results are presented gross-of-advisory fees and represent the client's Total Return. The deduction of advisory fees lowers performance results. These results include the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings. Past performance may not be indicative of future results. Therefore, clients should not assume that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable or equal to past performance levels. All investment strategies have the potential for profit or loss. Economic factors, market conditions or changes in investment strategies, contributions or withdrawals may materially alter the performance and results of your portfolio.

Index returns assume reinvestment of all distributions. Historical performance results for investment indexes generally do not reflect the deduction of transaction and/or custodial charges or the deduction of an investment management fee, the incurrence of which would have the effect of decreasing historical performance results. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

Fixed income investments are subject to interest, credit and market risk. Interest rate risk: the value of fixed income investments will decline as interest rates rise. Credit risk: the possibility that the borrower may not be able to repay interest and principal. Low rated bonds generally have to pay higher interest rates to attract investors willing to take on greater risk. Market risk: the bond market in general could decline due to economic conditions, especially during periods of rising interest rates.

Ratings information have been provided by Moody's, S&P and Fitch through data feeds we believe to be reliable as of the date of this statement, however we cannot guarantee its accuracy.

Security level ratings for U.S. Agency issued mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") reflect the issuer rating because the securities themselves are not rated. The issuing U.S. Agency guarantees the full and timely payment of both principal and interest and carries a AA+/Aaa/AAA by S&P, Moody's and Fitch respectively.
