

Help Us Shape the Future of Housing in Cupertino

The City of Cupertino is seeking input from the public regarding future housing development. The long-term vitality of Cupertino and the local economy depend upon the availability of all types of housing to meet the community's diverse housing needs. The City is seeking your input on issues such as affordable housing, housing density, building heights, and other housing-related issues, as they relate to quality of life, that you feel should be addressed.
